STAMPS MUST BE ON CONVEYANCES

Recorders Should Make Note of This In all Records in Future.

The following communication, which has been received from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue's office at Washington by William Haywood, Commissioner of Internal Revenue for Hawaii, will s of interest to all who have occasion to make use of abstracts of conveyances of

To Collectors and Revenue Agents: Frem reports received by this office, it is shown that many State officers, such as county recorders, registers, clerks or others charged with the official recording of conveyances, mortgages and like instruments affecting the ownership of property, have omitted to note upon the record of such instruments made since June 13, 1898, whether the original instrument was stamped as required by the Stamp Act and the amount of the stamp. La some recorders' offices hundreds of such records have been found which have occasioned investigations and the writing of a large number of letters only to have the fact developed in a large number of cares that the original instrument in the hands of the grantee or mortgagee had been properly stamped at the date of ex-

This condition of affairs and the labor imposed upon the Internal Revenue offices thereby and the annoyance to the taxpayers resulting is due entirely to the failure of the recording officer to note that the original instrument recorded by him was properly stamped and the amount of the stamp.

In some cases Collectors have made inquiries as to whether any penalty was incurred by such negligence of the record-ing officer. To such inquiries this office has replied that the Internal Revenue laws impose no penalty for such negligence other than to declare that the defective record shall not be used in evi-

The fact that the record is disqualified for use in any court proceedings is, therefore, a matter of grave importance in every community.

As illustrating the effect upon property rights of defective records of this kind, it is only necessary to refer to abstracts of title made from such official records. The abstractor, finding no indication that by recording officers would seem to be $100, 65 Olaa, paid up, $13. defective record does not invalidate the original instrument, if it is properly stamped. The loss of the original instrument might in such case cause trouble. Respectfully,

MISSIONARY OUTRAGES AT HOME.

Senator Eugene Hale, of Maine, told recently with amused chagrin of a passage at arms he had with Mr. Wu, the Chinese Minister. The treatment of the missionaries in the Far East was under discussion, and the Senator had trotted out a number of instances of maltreatment, and even worse, that the missionaries had met with at the hands of their Eastern brethren. The Senator then pointed out to the Miriser that this was hardly the way in which the missionary should be received, and that a liberty of faith should be accorded their subjects by Eastern rulers. All through this homily the Chinese Minister had grinned sympathetically but a trifle derisively. "Liberty of religious thought, eh?" Wu inquired tentatively, when his chance came; "you not always give liberty of religious thought in this country; you sometimes persecute the 12 missionary in these great United States, 19 I think?" To this, needless to say, the junior Senator from the Pine Tree State interposed a vigorous denial. "No, you never do such things here,

You never persecute the poor misslopary! You are too high minded. You have too much freedom of thought for From Hilo, per stmr. Walaleale, Octo- grew diabolical, "How about that Levan- obtained.
